

Airline Baggage Fees

The grid below summarizes the checked baggage fees of the major North American airlines as of June 2, 2010. Individual policies are subject to change without notice and agents are advised to verify the policy directly with the airline at the time of booking for the most complete, up-to-date information. Unless stated, the fees listed are for coach class tickets. Most airlines provide exemptions for frequent flyer status and full fare passengers. Links to individual baggage policies are provided below. Online check-in refers to the customers pre-paying for their bags prior to getting to the airport. Airport check-in refers to the customers who do not pre-pay for their bags and check a bag at the airport. ASTA recommends that you include the following sample notice with passenger invoices if space permits:
